Gustemals repeated denunciations of preparations in Honduras for just the type of attack that has now occurred, were drowned in a flood of counter-accusations that it was, on the contrary, President Arbenn's regime which was building up strength for an attack.

CTRECTLY speaking, there is seems to be little legal difference between preparations for an attack by a Communist countries, and the same situation with ideologies reversed. Most people in the world are not ready to accept a double set of standards in international politics, For the Western world, the invasion is no more palatable because it to more almost simultaneously with the Security Council of Thailand's request for United Nations shaervers along its borders with the occina, and at a time whem there are plans for joint action in the event that China takes a more active and direct interest. there are plans for joint in the event that China more active and direct in the Indo-China war. Ambassador Eric A. Johnston, President Elsenhower's Special Representative, said at Mandelbaum Gate on his arrival in Jerusalem on Friday afternoon that 'no decisions were reached and none were sought' during the six.day talks he had just concluded in Cairo with representatives of the Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt on the Jordan River project. He asserted that progress was being made.

Later, after paying a courtesy call on Prime Minister Sharett, Mr. Johnston was non-committal in reply to a question put by a respect, and to reach or would seek decisions during his talks with Israel leaders. He said that the negotiations were of too sensitive a nature to permit further elaboration or detail at this time.

Another force is reported to have attacked the pert of San Jose on the Pacific coast by sea. Mustang fighters, propeller-driven World War II planes, bombed the capital twice today from bases in Honduras and Nicaragua.

The Gustemalan Foreign Min. ister, Mr. Guillermo Toriello, is reported to have stated that his government had the invading army 'well under control.' In a recorded interview with a Montreal (Canada) radio station, he said that the rebels had been unsuccessful in attempts to take a number of key cities, and that if outside powers did not intervene, government troops would be able repel the attack.

According to an N.B.C. report from Honduras, on the other hand, one third of Guatemala has been overrun by the rebels.

Capital Calm

Guatemala City was reported to be calm. Blackout and night curfew have been imposed.

The uprising is said to be under the leadership of Colonel Carlos Castillo Armas, former chief of the Guatemalan sir force, and one-time comrade of President Jacobo Arbenz Gusman. Mr. Arbenz and Coi. Armas cooperated in a revolt which ousted the military dictatorship of President Frederico Ponce in 1944.

The spokesman added that there was nothing to indicate that there was anything except an internal revolution.

A Guatemalan Embassy spokesman in Washington said that it was "very apparent" that considerable military help from abroad had been given to the invading forces.

Army-McGarthy Hearings Concluded

WASHINGTON Saturday (Reuter)—The 26th and last day of the Army-McCarthy bearings ended here last night with bots sides standing firm on the charges which set the hearings in motion on April 22.

Senator McCarthy himself, the last witness, told the sub-committee he was ready to continue his search for Communists on a new and broader basis, including the Central Intelligance Agency and atom and hydrogen bomb plants.

Hearings were summed up in a statement to the Press by Republican Senator Charles Potter, who said he thought the principal accusation of each side had been borne out. The Army hor said he thought the principal accusation of each side had been borne out. The Army brought the accusation to "black-mail" him into stopping a probe of Communism in the Army.

The subcommittee will meet in closed session tomorrow to discuss writing its report on the hearings—or more than one report if they cannot agree on a umanimtous decision.

can p l a y in encouraging further immigration from the lands they have left.

The Olei Britannia will be naturally even more closely concerned with the vexed problem of Western Aliya. The number arriving in Israel from the "Anglo-Saxon" countries has dwindled to a mere trickle and though yeridah is not an acute issue among Olei Britannia it is still sufficiently prevalent proportionately to give rise to a great deal of concern.

Attention will no doubt be drawn by the conference to the inadequate salaries paid to professional workers in this country who come to settle, as compared to the remuneration they would receive if they came only for a short time as "experis." Thus a premium is actually placed upon people from the West not to come here as immigrants.

The problem of high customs duties is still a great deterrent in spite of recent relaxations. Thus from the start the immigrant knows he will have to drop his standard of living drastically in return for the privilege of taking his share of the State's burdens.

The Conference, however, will not be too obsessed with this problem. Positive lines of approach to the general issues confronting Olei Britannia are also very much to the fore. Thus there will be a discussion on means of bringing members into active contact with the civic and communal life of the country. Plans will be considered for mutual assistance in order to provide loans at a low rate of interest for the purchase of housing and the establishment of an enterprise to build homes for reat. If the Hitachdut should manage to pioneer in this field they will while on a Gadna outing, has held its first public hearing. Although the commission has been asked to examine only the cause of death and to recommend ways of preventing such accidents in the future it would do a real public service if it went deeper into the problem.

Gadna originated as a department of the Defence Ministry and at first the movement only reached children attending secondary schools.

Later attempts were made to include children from ms'bs-rot, trade and agricultural schools.

The bill on the punishment of orimes against the State, which passed its first reading in the Russet last week, is an attempt to solve the difficult problem of protecting the State without going too far in curbing the freedom of the citisen. The bill has a long history: it was already once before the House in a different form, and now that it has been seat on to the Legal Committees it will still require entensive changes.

It was only to be expected that the extreme opposition would raily all its forces to oppose a law designed to furnish the Government with the legal instruments to prevent the forceful overthrow of its institutions. But opposition also came from the ranks of the coalition and even from those of Mapai. This is of the utmost importance.

The essilition parcies should not be ready to conseds all series of compelsory powers to the Government under the assumption that they will always remain in office and only they will wield the legal weapens forged by Parliament. These weapens have a double stags.

Three points were selected for attack by almost all the opponents of the draft: the right of the authorities to impose punishment not only for facta but also for intentions; the power of administrative arrest for perioda up to 90 days; and the regulations regarding secrety which, according to many speakers, spell danger for a free press. It is very strange that the Minister of Justice, who introduce changes in the noroposed bill, went out of his way to reject the arguments of his opponents in the summing up.
